

June - Goulston Street Baths

I can think of, we did have the swimming baths in Goulston Street, off of Wentworth Street, and there was an open-air pool there, which we loved in the summer, didn't we?

Yeah, yeah. And I think that's probably where I ended up learning to swim. They had an indoor pool and, as we called it, the lido, but it wasn't really. My understanding, I think the roof got damaged in the war, and I don't think it ever got replaced, so that we had that there.
